JARED'S MISSION TO HAWAII

What the Hilo Tribune Finds in it to Awake Philosophic Comment.

Following is from the Hilo Tribune of

"Jared Smith, who has been in charge of the offices of seed and plaint introduction in the Washington Department of Agriculture," says a Washington dispatch, "has been directed to start in a few days for Honolulu to establish an agricultural experiment station there. As director his first work will be to teach the Hawaiian people how to grow garden truck. Most of the vegetables now consumed in the Islands are imported from San Francisco, hey will be taught also the value of dairy cows among poor families, butter and cheese making; the forage plants most economically produced for Hawaiian consumption and the expediency of poor families raising chickens and pigs."

It seems uncertain whether Jared is going to preside over a dairy ranch and market gardening establishment, with kindergarten attachment to furnish cheap labor while instruction is in progress, or whether he is going to make a house to house visitation carrying a hoe, a package of squash seeds and a churn and give object lessons in small farming and the value of homemade cheese, to the aboriginees. can imagine him giving pointers in the scientific raising of sweet potatoes on the rocky lands of Puna, where the natives bring the earth in buckets from some remote pocket, make their little mounds on the pahoehoe, chuck in a for hard work.
